GEORGIA TECH ALUMNI HOLDS REUNION TODAY

Annual Gathering of Old Grads To Precede Georgia Game.

George Tech's alumni will hold their annual reunion today preceding the home-coming game with the University of Georgia. Old grads will issemble at the main dining hall on Techwood drive, where friendships will be renewed and friendships formed with the members of the graduating class of 1930.

The alumni gathering is scheduled to start at 12:15 o'clock and be completed in time for all to be in their seats at Grant field for the opening whistle of this afternoon's game.

The classes of 1895, 1900, 1905, 1910, 1915, 1920, 1925 and 1930 will have special meetings and the mem bers of classes of all other years will attend the general celebration.

Jack Thiesen, secretary of the Jack Thiesen, secretary of the alumni association, announced Friday that no special invitations have been issued but reservations have been made by several hundred old grads and one of the largest reunions in the institution's history is expected.

Food, clothing and other necesof life will be supplied 50 needy Atlanta families by the At-lanta Woman's Club under a plan lanta Woman's Club under a plan being perfected by the executive board of that organization, it was learned Friday night from Mrs. Thornton Fincher, president.

While the plan has not yet been completed, it provided, generally, for purchase of tickets by members of the club from the Community Kitchen; clothing and coal will be bought as needed by outright subscriptions from club members. No public aid is contemplated in the plan, Mrs. Fincher said, the board having decided that members themselves would be able to take care of needy cases during the winter. The matter will be placed before the entire club at its meeting Monday afternoon.

Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, republican chairman of the investigating committee, is quietly accumulating evidence for a report which will be used as a basis for a request to be presented to the senate at an early date for additional funds with which to prosecute the inquiry.

After receiving new evidence of alleged selling of federal offices in three of the southern states, the committee chairman is preparing to ask for an additional appropriation and when approved will immediately launch a new and addition to Georgia, The Constitution is able to report that evidence touching on conditions in South Carolina and Tennessee has been directed to Senator Brookhart's attention in a manner to convince him of the necessity for a revival of his committee.

The Georgia phase of the inquiry, among other things, is scheduled togo into charges which have already been brought into the open involving Henry L. Davis, secretary to the administration official patronage committee in the state, and John B. Dove, of Atlanta, indicted recently for violating the federal statute against soliciting and accepting funds from federal officeholders or candidates for such offices.

Letters From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter

BY ROBERT QUILLEN

My dear Louise:

Like your dad, you admire many of the semi-precious stones more than you admire diamonds.

A diamond has no claim to beauty that isn't shared by a nickel's worth of ice, and the only reason it costs more than any of the common colored stones is because it is scarce. If you could pick up rough diamonds in every creek bed, ladies would prefer red beads from the In other words, rabbits are worth less than

Just this: In your efforts to be the right kind of woman—the kind bold knights kill ROBERT QUILLEN dragons to win—you find yourself confronted by umpty-steen ethical guide posts that point all directions and therefore confuse more than they enlighten. Under the circumstances, you may go wrong when you mean to do right, and the only way to escape confusion is to discard all of the sign posts

One is all you need: Be honest. Honest with your God and your friends and yourself.

That one rule would solve all of the world's problems, for it is lack of common honesty that brings us to the state we are in now. If all were honest, there would be no thefts, of course-no racketeering, no grafting, no crimes against property at all-nothing for the police and courts to do except attend to cases of personal violence.

And in such cases there would be no perjury, no crooked prosecu-tors railroading poor men to jail to help their own reputations, no un-just judges disregarding the facts to suit their secret prejudices.

There would be no bribery of officials, no warping of facts for political advantage, no diplomatic knavery leading to war, no unfair laws to fatten the rich. And there would be no hyprocrisy in religion, no untrue propaganda in the press, no disloyalty to wives or husbands, no cheating in schools. Can't you see how perfect the world would be!

If only people were honest! Just common honesty-the very mininum of decency-would end all of our troubles.

Prize honesty, Honey. Demand it; praise it; reward it; preach it, whenever you can. And learn to revere it so much that you won't even

SCOUTS GAS THEORY

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(R)—The startling suggestion that the mysterious epidemic which has taken nearly 60 lives in the fog-bound Meuse valley of Belgium is "something like the black death," was made tonight by Professor J. B. S. Haldane, one of Great Britain's most eminent scientists.

"I don't believe the epidemic can have been caused by war gas," he said, "because deaths have occurred in different villages. They have been having floods in that district lately and it is possible that may have something to do with it."

The "black death" was the name given in the middle ages to a mysterious plague which raged in the which some historians say, amounted to a third of the population of western Europe. It is believed wet and above all foggy conditions are particularly favorable to spread of the dis-of the affected area.

The mayor explained that he himself was ill with the mysterious disease and had got up from his bed to answer the paper's call.

"The 3,500 inhabitants of my little town are terror-stricken," he told the Daily Herald. "Nobody knows what the cause is, but it is associated in the popular mind with the fog which has lain over the valley the past few days.

The cry: "Away with democracy!" has become quite familiar since the coming in the world of Mussolinis and pseudo-Mussolinis. Now the question of feminine clothing is to be added to the problems of the day. It appears powerfully in reducing the alien that the wraps and gowns had a tendency to help democracy take root. The great designers are against this. Hence they want to create one fash-ion altogether out of reach of the Complaint had been made by the Galveston Cotton Exchange and Board of Trade that the railroads had been overcharging their members. They asked that the rates be declared unreasonable and that the shippers be reimbursed for the alleged excessive charges. In instances where the names of the shippers were given, this was ordered.

RETAIL TRADE GAINS IMPETUS

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(R)—Brad-street's tomorrow will say: Cold weather, the release of savings funds and actively advertised "sales" have made for a moderate expansion of retail trade, in which heavy wearing apparel and holiday goods have participated. Some effect of this has been seen in a slight gain in re-order trade in the above lines, with toys figuring prominently in some reports. In industry the trend has been toward the quiet side, steel ingot capacity being reported below 40 per cent, with lumber quieter, and that automobile factories are active, engaged to a moderate extent on new model production. An exception to the quieter frend among the heavier industries is found in the pick-up of demand for domestic sizes of coal, which has called for a slightly more active mining movement, particularly in bituminous coal in the west.

Weekly bank clearings $9.961,026,000, a decrease of 24.8 per cent from last year.

Chevrolet Hums.

DETROIT, Dec. 5.—(P)—The Chevrolet Motor Company last month set a new high record for November, it was announced today, with a pro-duction of 47,257 cars. This com-pares with 46,125 for November, 1929, the previous high record for the 11th month of the year. month of the year.

SHORT SIDE DANGEROUS.

While there does not seem to be any favorable news on which to purchase stocks, opinion seems to be that the short side is fraught with much danger and offers little inducement of high profits whereas it contains nondanger and offers little inducement of big profits whereas it contains possibilities of substantial losses, as shown by the predicament in which the shorts in Auburn Auto and Ingersoll Rand find themselves. Auburn Auto continued upward at the expense of the shorts today and sold at a new high price for this movement. The name of a big chewing gum man from the west and that of a former bank official are being connected with the market for the stock. These men are declared to be behind the present advance. The shorts in Ingersoll Rand are being charged a premium daily for borrowing the stock. One of the Street's best known operators is understood to have engineered the trap into which the shorts have belief the stock of the street's best known operators.

DAY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Cotton goods were seiling in moderate lots today at slightly lower prices on some of the gray cloth constructions. Moderate sales of printed goods were reported. New worsted crepes and flannels for spring were available at $10 per yard. Bayon purchases were of a moderate character, with most of the business being on fine denier and dull lustre specialties. Silk goods were in better demand for early spring needs.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Rubber futures closed steady: December 9.39; March 9.40; May 9.70. New contracts: December 9.33; March 9.40; May 9.75. Spot, amoked the state of the state o

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

There is little one can say today about the cotton market. The report of the farm board on stabilization caused very little countent, the market cased in the morning under comparatively small offerings, this selling was attributed to weakness in stocks. Prices stiffened in the afternoon under warehouse buying and market closed very steady about unchanged on the day. We look for very little activity other than the possibility of some scattered short covering until the report on the eighth is published.

Liverpool futures are due: January 5.52; March 5.65.

AKRON, Ohio, Dec. 5.—(P)—Seiberling Rubber Company shows an operating loss of $1,282,008 for the year ending October 31, according to the annual report made to stockholders today by F. A. Seiberling, president. The loss was recorded despite net sales for the year of $9,338,150.47 after deducting all charges.

Current assets exceeded current liabilities by $2,672,218, a ratio of more than 4 to 1, Seiberling pointed out.

Stock Letters.

NEW YORK. Dec. 5.—Despite the further pressure of selling which caused early declines Friday offerings were sufficiently well absorbed to encourage a more aggressive stand resulting in a recapture of lost ground and a price stand-off at the close. Including Friday's session the level just above 180 in the Dow-Jones industrials averages had been held successfully as a resistance point on three occasions since the raily from the lows of November.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Ground lost in the morning was regained in the afternoon and prices showed very little change on the day. At the low points on the deay is to be finding it easier to break resistance points on the down side than on the side of advance. There is no urgent pressure, however, except occasionally in special issues where situations apparently exist. On the other hand, constructive leadership is conspicuous by its absence.

bers said was perhaps the most tem- was I pestuous convention in the 35 years of its existence.

It elected Registrar H. H. Caldwell, treasurer.

Dr. Theodore H. Jack, of Emory University; R. L. Marquis, of North Texas State Teachers' College; H. M. Ivy, of Meridian, Miss.; Dr. A. B. Dinwiddie, of Tulane University, and Dean-Harry D. Campbell, of Washington & Lee University, were elected members of the executive committee.

Dean-Harry D. Campbell, of Washington & Lee University, were elected members of the executive committee.

The committee began immediate consideration of the 1931 convention city, but, said the selection would not be announced until later. Montgonery, Memphis, Chattanooga and Durham, N. C., asked for the convention. To clarify the association's action in suspending the University of Mississippi, Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical, Mississippi State College for Women and State Teachers College, of Hattiesburg, Miss., from members of the committee said in a statement that the "ruling menns the institutions will be a hindrance to the students instead of a control of the Chicago Cubs for 1931, and D. I. Barron, the original "Red," will be guest speakers at Sunday morning's session of the Pooleon class of the Poncé de Leon Baptist church, A. M. (Lonnie) Smith, teacher, announced Friday.

Eldridge P. Kellam, Jr., former casher of Randall Brothers, Inc., Friday was indicted by the grand jury on a charge of embezzling $12,146.85 form his employers. The alleged shortage was discovered in September, it was said.

means the institutions will be a himdrance to the students instead of a help."

The schools were suspended yesterday in what members said was the most drastic step ever taken by the organization. The association interpreted its action as "our disapproval of political interference with state-owned institutions, and said the action was taken "because of the wholesale dropping of teachers from the schools without defense."

Extensive personnel changes were made in the schools last summer by the boards of trustees, the most important of which is under the chairmanship of Governor Theodore G.

Makes High Record at Radcliffe

Atlanta Kindergarten Alumnae Club met yesterday at the home of Mrs. T. H. Simmons, on 115 Inman circle, and Mesdames T. H. Simmons and W. E. Matthews acted as hostesses. The main business feature was the discussion of the permissive kindergarten bill that has been before the legislature for some time, and will be brought before it again in the summer of 1931. The speakers were: Mesdames Charles Osborne, R. L. Turman, of the League of Women Voters, and Charles Morris, chairman of the legislative committee of the fifth district of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs. Members were delighted with the opportunity of seeing the portrait of Miss Willette Allen, which was on display and is a recent work of Miss Kate Edwards. Miss Elizabeta nunter, daughter of Mrs. Joel Hunter, who is enrolled at Radeliffe College and who achieved the record-breaking distinction of making A plus in the recent matriculate examinations held at Radeliffe, he woman's college of Harvard. The excellent paper bringing to Miss Hunter this high mark has not only been commended as being the best freshman paper at Radcliffe but as topping all freshman records at Harvard. Miss Hunter graduated from Washington Seminary last May with high honors and was awarded a scholarship to Radcliffe through this school. She is a popular member of Radcliffe's freshman class, being one of the two freshmen selected to sing with the choral society in the Boston Symphony orchestra. At present Miss Hunter is trying And the same in the famous Harvard Little theater. Miss Hunter also takes an active part in athletics, belonging to the basketball team and the equitation class.

Divorce Suit Involving

Dead Couple in Court

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 5.—(2?)—
Litigation in an unusual divorce case in which both principals are dead reached the Virginia supreme court of appeals today.

Charles R. Craddock was granted a divorce from Blanche Craddock at Alexandria on March 1, 1930.

This was set aside by a decree on June 17. Thirteen days later Craddock killed Blanche Craddock and committed suicide.

dock killed Blanche Craddock and committed suicide.

Proceeding on the theory that when the divorce was set aside Craddock became a married man rain, the administrators of Blanche Craddock claimed one-third of his estate. Craddock's administrators took an appeal from the cores setting aside the divorce.

"Don was a queer man to be a ranch manager, though he knew his job—he seemed to know everything that belonged to the out-of-doors," he said. "But he was educated. He knew and cared about all the things I was trying so hard to cling to. He stirred my curiosity, too—my interest. He was full of moods—hursts of wild high spirits and then periods of depression. And there was something—I don't know the word for it in a man-asomething that was like a man "At first an instinctive caution kept me from letting Max know, when he was home—not for my sake, but for his. Then I stopped caring ven for that; or rather, I still cared but there was no room lett for thinking of it. "If I couldn't. I couldn't the was undertoot and look beyond. Vesterday-yesterday—I might even have left Max and loped with Don, it hed asked me. I might have done that to Max—without a backward look! Instead."

"If I could have had room to think, I'd have know that I'd get over it. But I couldn't. I couldn't the was and the process of the couldn't. The words were not loudly spoken, but the restrained force behind them reverberated in Peter's ears like thunder.

"Will you tell me, step by step, exactly what happened yesterday."

"Strain? I shall have to learn to be a strain. I think. Part of it I don't know with slow call, it was the sound of my own laugh the strain on you, but it has to be done—and we haven't a great deal of time."

"Strain? I shall have to learn to be a strain. I think. Part of it I don't know with slow call and the sense of remotences and unreality, the effect of shock, would mercifully not wear of before Aline reached the end of her recital.

"I did not know my sister very long ago—not like yesterday."

Peter found himself ardently hoping that the sense of remotences and unreality, reached the end of her recital.

"I did not know my sister very well," she began with slow clarity. "We were both left orphans very young, and were brought up by different sets of relatives. But whenever we met, we got along well enough, and when I found that she was at loose ends for the summer, I invited her to visit me. It did not once enter my head that—that Don—" Her lips twisted in a bitter lipe that was less like a smile than a grimace defying the ignominy of tears.

I heard it, and it was like the thing in the flaming mist. It must kill Don, so that Max would never be hurt—would never know. "I took the pistol from the drawer the ignominy of tears."

"I was so lost in Don—and I had every renson to suppose it was the same with him. I told you I didn't take these things lightly. Perhaps his manner had been a little different lately. But if it was, I attributed it to his moods. Essentially he was toward me as he had always been—as he had come to be in these last months. Then yesterday, Marjorie told me. She told me I had been a fool not to see it.

"I didn't believe her—I couldn't. I had been so sure—so utterly sure! My disbelief made her angry—so angry that she told me—other things. She taunted me on the difference in our continued Monday.

"We'll, then," Aline caught her breath sharply, and paused.

"Then with a final abandonment of the road of retreat, she hurried on. "There's one thing about me that's terribly different from Max. He's absolutely steady—I'm not.

"It's the thing I admire most in him—the thing I'm most grateful for—the thing I'we clung to. It's like the steadiness of a star. But I'm not like that. I get brainstorms—Oh, what's the use of hunting pretty words? I fall in love with people. I don't mean light flirtations, but violently in love.

Knoxville - Mobile - Little Rock Volcano Threatens To Wreak Havoc.

By Ralph McGill.

Mr. John D. Martin, who is helpdepression by hurrying from nounced it yet but he is trying to stave off a six-club league for the Southern Baseball association.

Since the satisfied Southern asso-ciation owners sat by and saw Jimmy Hamilton incur the iffwill of the Mo-bile fans in an effort to take the franchise to Knoxville. John Public, the man with the 75-cent piece, has been very calm indeed about their fu-and Knoxville abandoned the idea of a Class A franchise. Which was probably all for the best as Knoxville could hardly have supported one as well as Mobile.

MOBILE NEXT.

Mr. Martin, who has ridden to Mobile for four or five conferences and to Knoxville for almost that many, is now moving sadly on his way to Mobile. He has already had to ask Mobile for make another offer.

Mobile, with night baseball in view, is likely to come right back with an offer. They might offer $4,000, just to get even and a laugh.

It was a terrible park and little more than a dollar a which was the rental paid. At the ball players said so.

THIS TANGLE.

Before the Knoxville franchise sounced back on the league there was some talk of taking the franchise there of Mobile. That is out.

Unless Mr. Martin can attend enough conferences to sell the Knoxville franchise back to Mobile and find a park for Bob Allen at Little Rock, the six-club league appears imminent.

If he can settle just one of them here is a way out. The league might perate another club, with headquarers in Memphis or some other city, at the Coast league operates the Mis-

The Missions have no real home but play in San Francisco when the club is out of town and go on the road in regular schedule. The Travroad in regular schedule. The Travelers might retain their present name and fit right into that plan.

Baseball interest remains almost null and void. Old John Public doesn't seem to care very much one way or other what happens to Mobile, Knoxville and Little Rock.

Businessmen in those cities, seeking to retain what has been called a civic asset by the baseball owners, have made a strenuous effort. But the public columns, open to expressions from "Old Subscribers" and "Pro Bono Publico," those well-known citizens, remain free from any expressions zens, remain free from any expressions of regret, sorrow or desire about the baseball business. This attitude is now paying dividends in lots of nothing at all.

It is quite possible that Appling will be made a free agent. If so he has an offer of $15,000 to sign with another club.

Tech Holds First Pep Rally in Years

An old college custom returned to Georgia Tech Friday morning, for the first time since 1926.

With the Jackets faeing tremendous odds in their game against the Bulldogs this afternoon, and with only an inspired fight by the team seen as a possible means of averting defeat, an old-fashioned pep meeting was hald in the Flat cuman old-fashloned pep meeting was held in the Flats gymmasium.

Twelve hundred students applauded an address by President Brittain on "Good Sportsmanship;" brief talks by Red Barron and John Staton, old Tech stars, and a speech by Coach Alexander; who praised the spirit of the gathering and attributed much of the lack of success with which the team has met in the past two seasons to lack of proper moral support from the student body and alumni.

To the gifted writer who said "Tomorrow is another football season" should go a sprig of laurel and a swig of juniper juice. The 1930 gridiron offensive, all but concluded Thanksgiving Day, will be laid away under a covering of autumn leaves and alibis and coaches' scalps tomorrow.

There will be talk, endless talk, through the winter of prospects for 1931. No sooner is the old race run than the winter books are opened on the new. The football season is the only perpetual sport in our community; in others racing and boxing share the rostrum

The expedition sent out from the Capstone toward the Rose Bowl will keep alive memories of the old race. But to all intents taps will be sounded at sundown today.

> Georgia scarcely can fail to regain enough of their October form to beat the Yellow Jackets. Georgia carries many guns of range and caliber superior to the rather light armament of the Engineers. Georgia will have better punting, presumably, and better team play and certainly ought to win.

The Yellow Jackets no doubt will put up the battle of their ives. The last of the survivors of the Rose Bowl invasion of 1928 will be playing their own requiem with their cleats. They will be keyed to the old pitch. The sophomores, who otherwise make up the Flats eleven, will be fighting their hearts out, too; perhaps they will not lose contact when the going gets tough and if so the game might be very surprising in final score.

The battle, whatever the outcome, will be too good to miss even if the elements are trying to make another soggy field of it as they did in 1927 and 1929.

TENNESSEE-FLORIDA.

Tennessee plays Florida in Jacksonville and this game is a toss-up. No championship is involved there. But Tennessee has lost only one game and is jealous of their position a notch lower than Alabama and Tulane in percentage.

Florida's senior team came on with a rush in No-vember, beat Clemson and Tech by big scores, and hopes to improve their own rating by thumping the Vols before a home gathering.

The game is an even chance either way. Pay your money and take your choice. I like Tennessee.

NORTH CAROLINA-DUKE.

North Carolina plays Duke at Chapel Hill in the finale for both elevens. The Tarheels started the season as a strong favorite but lost to Georgia, were tied by Tech, lost to Tennessee and then dropped one to Davidson.

Duke has been going fast since losing the opening game to South Carolina back in September and has only a tie with Wake Forest to mar the succession.

Coach Jimmy DeHart is saddling his Blue Devils for the last time; he yields his megaphone to Wallace Wade. So one can look for Duke to play an old-fashioned inspired football

COLD HOME-COMING.

"When you attend these late football games." he said, "the chances are that they have to send an ice wagon to bring you home, and then lay you on the stove and work on you with scrapers and brine to get you out of your overcoat. Now, while spring baseball may be a little damp and chilly, the worst you can get is pneumonia, and you can take that home in an ordinary taxicab."

I had to admit there was some reason in what he said.

Although the Babe professes that his present journey is solely in the interests of hunting, there is a rumor that he will improve the occasion to take off a bit of weight. A winter life of inaction sometimes affects the great hitter to the point where he finds it necessary to do a bit of road work, such as donning a sweat shirt and running three times around his waist line each morning.

That the Sultan of Swat has headed for the sunshine, not to chase base-balls, but to hunt the flying duck and the wild turkey, has little to do with the case. The very fact of his going will encourage the rabid rooter, whose voice has been lost in the clamor concerning the merits of shifts and tackle plays, to better and louder efforts. Even though their here has only left the wing back for the turkey wing, his move in the southward, or right, direction will paint pictures of the ultimate advance on the training camp.

It was only the other day that a loyal baseball enthusiast was pointing out to me the advantages of the horsehide over the pigskin game.

That Steele, of Florida, and Maree, of Georgia Tech, have been selected by a consensus of coaches for line places on an all-southern eleven ahead of men playing the same positions on teams with higher rating, argues that these players are more than good. Constitution Cup Goes to Winner Permanent possession of the second Clark Howell trophy will go to the winner of the Tech-Georgia game today at Grant field.

The publisher of the Atlanta Constitution offered an imposing silver chalice to the winner of most games in the series of three beginning in 1928. Georgia Tech won the first leg on the new cup by defeating Georgia 20 to 6 on Grant field. Then last year in the rain at Athens, Georgin won 12 to 6.

The cup will be presented to the winner of the Flats battle this afternoon. It has been on exhibition at the George Muse Clothing Company this week. The first Clark Howell trophy, offered under similar conditions in 1925 when the two schools resumed relations, was permanently won by Tech through victories in 1925 and 1927.

THE CORRECT IDEA.

EHIGH UNIVERSITY has started a movement which should have been Ladopted years ago. It was advocated more than once in this column. The plan is to play only those university rivals who have about the same standards of scholarship for entrance requirements and university work. As things are now, football competition is entirely out of line.

There are sophomores and juniors playing at some universities who could not enter as freshmen at others. Some universities have extended spring practice and others have little or none. It is a handicap race in a large number of contests and some universities are too badly handicapped, as far as football is concerned, to have even an outside chance against others who have easy entrance requirements or soft courses that are easily handled. Any race, truly run, is supposed to be from an even start. This is rarely true through a football season.

Those universities with higher entrance requirements, higher scholarship demands and stricter codes should all play together, permitting those with lower scholarship standards to mingle in the same way. The dividing line is on its way. It is hardly fair for A to take a beating from B when B is using a number of football players who could never enter A, or stay there two weeks if they did

A certain coach recently remarked that he had been badly beaten by a team where two-thirds of the players could not enter his university as freshmen, "but," as he put it, "the public is only interested in the

The time is coming when there will be a general agreement among certain universities to meet only rivals equipped with the same chance to win, or at least with the same football handicaps to face.

up to the higher standards.

At least two of the leading nominations must be Fesler, of Ohio State, and Dodd, of Tennessee.

Fesler was an end and a defensive fullback, backing up the line; he was a signal caller, a fine forward passer and a kicker. He carried on at least four or five jobs and he handled each one ably.

The same is true of Dodd, of Tennessee. Dodd might be listed as a quarterback, a halfback and a fullback. He ran the team, he did most of the blocking, all the passing and all the kicking. He was the best forward passer in the country, rated by Dan McGugin on a par with Benny Friedman, of Michigan days. He was the one kicker who could match Carideo. He comes close to being the best all-around back the south has produced, when kicking, passing, blocking and the rest of it come in for consideration.

injury in the Drake game cut him down and lessened his effectiveness against Northwestern and the Army. He is easily the best defensive back against Northwestern and the Army. He is easily the best detensive back in football this year—or he was until he was hurt. He is also a fine ball carrier and a good passer. A lot depends upon his physical condition in the coming Southern California game.

the game was played here. On that day the Golden Tornado won, 20 to 6.

It will be the first appearance in the historic Flats of "Catfish" Smith, "Red" Leathers, "Red" Maddox, Bobby Rose, Jim Hammerick, Marion Dickens, Austin Downes, Jack Roberts and Spurgeon Chandler on Grant field. They are the strong junior section of the Bulldog squad.

And for Tech, the last of the heroes who went to the Rose Bowl in 1928 and won from California will put their spikes in Grant field for the last time. Tom Jones, Vance Maree, Earl Dunlap, Jim Brooke and Hudson Edwards will conclude their careers; Frank Speer played a part of the 1928 campaign with the Tornado and he, too, finishes. Most of the Tech lineup that will face Georgia are sophomores.

Colvin at Quarter.

Tech's contemplated lineup was disrupted this week when Captain Earl Dunlap injured his knee again. He may be used in emergency, however. Sam Colvin will open hostilities at quarterback instead. Captain Dunlap was hurt in the Carnegie Tech game and has played but one full game since then. Bob Strickland, halfback, is definitely out, and Doug Graydon has not fully recovered from an injury sustained the same day Dunlap was hurt.

Georgia has all her men in good physical shape with the possible exceptions of "Red" Leathers, guard, and Armin Waugh, halfback. It is said that Leathers will be able to start the game, but that Waugh will not be fit for play.

Seat sales have been heavy for the old game in spite of the fact that both Tech and Georgia are out of the championship race. The Georgia folks are crowding into town hoping to see the Bulldogs retrieve their de Bulldogs Ready For Final Test. By Al Smith.

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 5.—The Bulldogs are ready. Such was the news that emanated from the Georgia camp tonight after the squad had taken its final workout on Sanford field and departed to get the duds in the old kit bags for the journey over to At-

In so far as the coaches have been able to accomplish it, the Bulldogs are trained and ready to go in their annual battle with Georgia Tech. They topped off an intensive week of training this afternoon with a light workout, just to keep them on their toes until the game Saturday.

It's up to the boys now, and what they do tomorrow afternoon at Grant field depends entirely upon themselves. They have scrimmaged against Tech plays, as run off by the Red Devil tanm, three times this week, and they climaxed the whole affair today with a short "dummy scrimmage" against those same plays.

The Bulldors have had an off-and against those same plays.

The Bulldogs have had an off-andon week in their scrimmages with the Red Devils. Part of the time they smeared Tech plays, being run by the Reds for their special benefit. And then at other times they have been humiliated by the Red backs, who ran through the entire varsity eleven for touchdowns. The "Tech" team was able to reel off considerable yardage in all three scrimmages, and once, last Tuesday, the Red backs ran over the varsity for several touchdowns, three to be exact.

SLACK IN DRIVE.

SLACK IN DRIVE.

Offensively the Bullsogs have shown, in the scrimmages, none of the power and drive that was good enough to whip Yale, North Carolina, Auburn and New York University.

Maybe they've been saving their powering and driving for Saturday against Tech, or maybe the Alabama game didn't leave them any of that early season offensive steam. At times the varsity has looked great offensively, but every afternoon they have lapsed back into that indescribable laxness that has made them easy victims for the Red Devil linemen.

men.

The fate of the Bulldogs in their final game tomorrow is, as some sage one put it, in the lap of the gods. On paper they have a big edge on Tech, but so did another Georgia team that played Tech in a downpour of rain in 1927. All bets are off when Georgia and Tech meet in their annual clash. Or at least they are in so far as those Georgians who witnessed the wonder team go down to defeat are concerned.

PROBABLE LINEUP.

The probable Georgia starting lineup as announced tonight by Coach
guard; Tassapoulas, center; Leathers, right guard; Hamerick, right tackle; Maffett (c), right end;
half; Dickens, right half; Roberts, fullback.

The rain may have discouraged timorous citizens from attending the game but the explayers of the post-war era were paying no attention to the climate. CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 5.—Boxing experts around the Loop today were gathered in conclave to discuss n unanimous fear that W. L. (Young) Stribling, Georgia heavyweight con-tender, who is to meet Tuffy Griffiths here on December 12, may be stale when he enters the ring against Gerald.

Strib, training at the Chicago Loop Strib, training at the Chicago Loop gymnasium, has looked almost too good against his sparring partners. Displaying neither particular speed nor much interest, W. Ring followers, flooding the ringside at the training quarters, are much wrought up over the state of COMES TO END

MARYLAND'S FINALE.

Maryland completes a terrific schedule of 12 games today by engaging Western Maryland, one of the undefeated (but tied once) teams and no doubt will lose. And those are the games.

Save for a few charity affairs between all-stars and professionals and the usual cruel extension of the prep schedule far into the winter, the gridiron sun is sinking. And, as the man said, tomorrow is another football season.

GEORGIA CHANGES.

Georgia's schedule for the past year contained two intersectional and two non-conference opponents which left little room for a representative conference schedule. However, Georgia did play the two unbeaten elevens-Alabama and Tulane.

Next year, however, Georgia will omit Mercer and Oglethorpe from their program and fill in those dates from conference ranks. V. P. I. already has been added to replace Oglethorpe.

The games with Yale and New York University will be retained. There is some hope, unofficially expressed, that the

There is little doubt but that the Bulldogs will be a bit overconfident. Florida reached a tremendous peak to tie Georgia 0 and 0. The same Florida team, using second-stringers for one period, slaughtered Tech by more than 40 points. The Bulldogs will be unable to get away from the memory of that.

tonight as the last "pep meeting" of the year was held in the university chapel and climaxed with a pajama parade through the business section. Overcoats were worn over the pajamas to keep out the cold night air. Five, maybe six, hundred cheering students were in the line of march of that parade through the city's streets, led by the university band.

By noon tomorrow the Classic City's population will have been decreased approximately one-fourth. Every Athenian who can "get off" will be in Atlanta for the game. And about the only students who will remain are those who are sick in bed. A holiday was given the student body by an indulgent faculty, and the boys are going to Atlanta without having to cut classes.

The university band will be in Atlanta tomorrow to lead a parade through the streets of the Gate City—and to play Georgia music at the game.

Will clean your furnace, $1.50. Diris Stove and Furnace Co., 279 Spring. Stove, Berner 34 Functional Co., Lance Co., 279 Spring. TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION

It took the Waziri but a short time to load themselves with the golden ingots. Before the askari had completely recovered from the surprise of the attack, they had again disappeared into the jungle with the man they supposed was Tarzan, their master. Late in the afternoon, Flora Hawkes, the three white men and a small party of the black hunters returned successful and in gay mood from their search for game. As they came in sight of camp they saw the askari excitedly running toward them. "What the devil is this?" cried Peebles. "What's wrong with the heavests?" wrong with the beggars?"

CAB CO., 220 IVY STREET.

COLORED CARRIER WANTED-

"Tarzan of the Apes has been here!" they jabbered.
"With all his Waziri—a thousand of them. They have taken away the gold!" Flora sought out the leader. "Tell me slowly and carefully all that has happened since we left," she ordered. She listened closely, questioning him often. When the tale was done she turned hopelessly to her confederates.
"It is all too clear to me," she said. "Tarzan recovered from the drug we gave him. Then he followed us with his Waziri, caught Esteban, killed him, located our camp and got the gold. That's him, located our camp and got the gold. That's that, and we're lucky if we get out of Africa with whole skins!"

A long time the three men and the woman discussed their situation. Flora laughed to scorn the suggestion they follow the supposed Tarzan and recapture the gold. "Not a chance in the world. You don't know him as I do!" But something MUST be done. Perhaps even now the dreaded ape-man was watching them. Until this Kraski, buried in thought, had said little. Now he looked up, grim determination on his face. "We have lost the gold," he said, "and the expedition seems a total washout. What we've lost, we've lost. You can do as you like—but I'll not go back to Engcan do as you like—but I'll not go back to Eng-land empty handed!"

"There are other things in Opar besides gold," he continued, and then unfolded his plan. "I have learned this crazy language and talked with our blacks. They tell me there's a bunch of Arabs down here stealing slaves and ivory. Only a few of them and their slaves would turn on them with our help. Here's my idea. Our party is still strong enough to overnower them. Let's set their ivory by setting to overpower them. Let's get their ivory their slaves to help, promising them their freedom.
What do you say?" "It sounds good to me," said
Peebles, "I ain't 'fer going 'ome empty 'anded."
The others—even Flora—agreed that ivory was almost as good as Opar's gold.

The pay-up-and-get-out order contained, in notices of eviction served today by the mill management against the families of 47 strikers in both the city of Danville and Schoolfield will be discussed by the strikers at a membership meeting of the local union of textile workers tomorrow night.

Francis J. Gorman, vice president of the United Textile Workers of America, said tonight the eviction notices were directed against leaders in the strike. He estimated that more than 200 persons will be affected by the orders which give 15 days' formal notice of the mill management's desire to terminate its lease with the occupants.

JERSEY STATE SENATE
